Part I. A Family-Based Model for Tough Adolescents

Chapter 1. Introduction

Why a Family-Based Model?
Who Are Our Tough Adolescents?
Basic Principles of Treatment
Plan of the Book

Chapter 2. Point of Entry: Why Difficult Teenagers Have Problems

An Incongruous Hierarchy
Misuse of Outside Forces
The Protective Function of Behavior Problems
The Pleasure Principle
Thinking Two Steps Ahead
Button-Pushing Skills

Chapter 3. A Model for Change

Step 1: Engagement
Step 2: Defining and Redefining Problems
Step 3: Parental Empowerment
Step 4: Setting Clear Rules and Consequences
Step 5: Troubleshooting
Step 6: Changing the Timing and Process of Confrontations
Step 7: The Adolescent’s Bid to Reclaim Authority
Step 8: Neutralizing the Adolescent’s “Five Aces”
Step 9: Working with Outsiders
Step 10: Improvement in the Adolescent’s Functioning
Step 11: Restoring Nurturance and Tenderness
Step 12: Surfacing of Other Family Issues
Step 13: Predicting Relapse
Step 14: Maintenance of Change or Relapse
Step 15: Follow-up
Part II. Specific Principles and Guidelines

Chapter 4. Setting Clear Rules and Consequences:
The Basic Work of Therapy

Stumbling Blocks for Parents
Strategies for Constructing Effective Rules and Consequences
Troubleshooting
Summary

Chapter 5. Changing the Timing and Process of Confrontations

Strategy 1: Finding and Neutralizing Buttons
Strategy 2: Uncovering Exceptions and Possibilities for Future Change
Strategy 3: Showing Parents How to Respond Nonreactively and Calmly
Summary

Chapter 6. Neutralizing the Adolescent’s “Five Aces”

Ace 1: Running Away
Ace 2: Truancy and Poor School Performance
Ace 3: Suicidal Threats or Behaviors
Ace 4: Threats or Acts of Violence
Ace 5: Disrespect
Summary

Chapter 7. Restoring Nurturance and Tenderness

Where to Begin
Strategies to Restore Nurturance and Tenderness
Initiating Soothing Sequences of Communication
Pulling It All Together: Implementing the Seven Nurturing Strategies
Summary
Part III. Special Treatment Issues and Circumstances

Chapter 8. Working with Outsiders

Knowing the Territory
Strategies for Working Effectively with Outside Systems
Summary

Chapter 9. Single-Parent Families:
Sharing Parental Responsibility

Strategy 1: Working Both Sides of the Fence
Strategy 2: Joint Determinations of Rules and Consequences
Strategy 3: Employing the Assistance of Other Children
Strategy 4: Community Family Counseling
Summary

Chapter 10. Divorce and Stepfamily Problems

The Exceptionally Difficult Divorce: Strategies for Conducting a Controlled Encounter
Stepfamily Issues: Strategies for Addressing Unrealistic Expectations
Summary

Chapter 11. Alcohol and Drug Use;
“I Don’t Have a Problem”

Strategy 1: Determining the Extent of the Adolescent’s Substance Use
Strategy 2: Mobilizing Multiple Systems
Strategy 3: Implementing Severe Consequences for Drug or Alcohol Use
Strategy 4: Addressing Other Family and Environmental Issues
Summary
Part IV. Research Findings and Future Implications

Chapter 12. Process-Outcome Research and the Family-Based Model: Refining and Operationalizing Key Theoretical Concepts

- Current Challenges and Controversies in Mental Health Care Research
- Goals and Objectives of My Project
- Development of the 15-Step Model: A Task Analysis Approach
- Beyond the 21st Century: Conclusions and Future Implications

References

Index